Introduction

For 'We the people of India' our Constitution is not merely a political and legal document but it is more than that. It is a reflection of our aspirations, sentiments, needs and wants. It establishes India as 'Sovereign Socialist Secular Democratic and Republic' Nation. The Constitution secures to all its citizens the Justice, Liberty, Equality; and.

promotes among them the Fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and unity and integrity of the Nation. It guarantees the Fundamental Rights to the Citizens, provides the Directive Principles of the State Policy and establishes the principal organs of the State. It is a catalyst in the process of revolutionary changes in the economic and social life of an individual without bloodshed.

As a responsible Citizen, everyone is required to be constitutionally sensitive. The Constitutional sensitivity promotes the citizens to abide by the Constitution and to respect its ideals and institutions.¹ We believe that the legal educational institutions can play a enormous role in conceiving the constitutional sensitivity in the minds of the citizens in general and law students in particular.
